Burglars Get Furs, Jewelry

A burglary at the home of Dr. William J. Lay, 225 E. Algonquin Rd. Sunday resulted in loss of furs, jewelry and diamond rings from the home.

No estimate of value has yet been made, but police said an emerald, a mink coat and hat, two diamond rings, a gold watch and a large amount of jewelry and two guns were among the loot.

About $800 in cash was also taken.

Sanitarian Describes Inspections

The village's sanitarian is starting his second month but as yet has "only scratched the surface."

That's what Village Sanitarian Richard Dawson says after visiting about 15 of Arlington Heights' 120 food-serving establishments.

Dawson has issued one closing notice and threatened to close several other restaurants in a matter of a few days.

"Arlington Heights restaurants aren't any better or worse than any place else's as far as health standards go," he said.

"However, we still have many problems, and to say we'll have all our health problems solved in six months would be foolish," he said.

Each restaurant operates on its own special problems," he said. "For instance, some are very conscientious about keeping their work tables clean but let their floors get dirty. Others do the opposite."

Some problems, however, are recurrent. Among them are: "Physical plant inadequacies. These Dawson says are the most common. Many restaurants do not have enough room to store food, and the clutter or washroom space for their employees."

Sanitarians often have a tendency to allow their facilities to slip down."

—Rapid employee turnover. This problem is related to maintenance difficulties. "It's hard to find good dishwashers and clean-up crew," Dawson says.

Some restaurants owners in general have received him cordially.

"I'm mostly interested in getting them to comply with the village ordinance. To do this I must get to be allies with the operators," he said. "It's a pretty hard job to do when they know you are there to close them down."

Dawson says his face is getting known around town. Restaurant owners have indicated that he is the health officer, due to charge this afternoon.

Eager Skaters Need Colder Days

Although several days of sub-freezing weather have chilled the area, Arlington Heights Park District officials say that conditions are not right for ice rinks.

Maintaining a smooth, hard ice over flooded tennis courts or grass areas is a difficult task, requiring just the right combination of sub-freezing temperatures, cloudy days and hard work, they say.

The rinks will not glaze every time the temperature reaches 32 degrees. A light sheet of water needs temperatures below 20 degrees for several days in a row, both skaters.

College Adds To Its Staff

The Harper College Board approved the appointment of a librarian and a assistant today at its meeting Thursday.

Harold C. Cunningham, 33, was appointed Assistant Dean of Career Opportunities at $10,000 a year salary. He currently serves as head of the department of engineering and computer science at DuSable Community College, Chicago.

Robert W. Thiele, 35, a branch librarian at the Police Training Academy in Chicago and the Municipal Reference Library, was named assistant librarian at a $6,000 a year salary.

At assistant dean Cunningham will be responsible for the planning, organization and administration of the career-oriented programs at the college. He will also be in charge of the formal education at Wayne State University (B.S.M.E. 1957, M.S.E.M. 1960). He has also served at various National Science Foundation positions.

He has taught at Henry Ford Community College, Dearborn, Mich., public schools, and Wayne State University College of Engineering.

Thiele received his Master's Degree in Library Science from the University of Chicago Graduate School of Library Studies in 1962. He served as Librarian at the Midwest Public Library from 1960 to 1964.

District sales manager Robert G. Wallen reports that sales during the first 10 months of 1966, $28,255,232, or a 94.27% increase over the same period in 1965. This is a 12 per cent growth in dollar volume.

The number of sales in which the Arlington Heights office at 220 E. Northwest Hwy. and the Mount Prospect branch at 21 E. Prospect Ave. participated is also shown as increases. Last year, 235 transactions were conducted, compared with 271 during 1966.

The Maine Adult Evening School will hold a Winter Holiday dance at 8:30 p.m. Friday in the cafeteria of Maine Township High School, Des Plaines, and Porter Rd., Park Ridge.

Admission fee for the dance is two cans of food to be distributed to Chicago needy families.

Loop Derailment Delays Trains

Thousands of northwest suburban commuters were delayed Friday morning as two freight trains derailed on the tracks of a Chicago & North Western Railway line left the track at the train yard east of Union Station in Chicago.

The derailed freight trains were reported in the midday, but scores of workers were kept from the railroad and newspaper offices and radio stations were informed of the accident.

The accident, which occurred the day after a CTA derailment delayed two trains, caused a 20-minute delay according to railroad spokesmen. However, commuters indicated that they were at least a 15-minute in getting home Friday night.

RAILROAD spokesman Frank Koval said that two of the last three of train 629 left the track as the train was passing through the yard. One of the cars derailed and the first four cars of the train were derailed.

"The real delay was caused when we were forced to stop the train," Koval said. "We had to use our interlocking system to isolate the derailed train."

Trains normally scheduled to use these tracks were rerouted, and the derailed train was moved to the passenger's confusion.

Koval said that it appeared that a switching mechanism caused the derailment.

Punch Card College Planned

Students who attend Harper College will spend a semester in a "punch card" program. The program will be a full-time program in which students will be required to punch holes in their punch cards. The punch cards will be used to record the student's progress in the program. The punch cards will be used to record the student's progress in the program.

Harper officials also have their eyes on "punch" technology in many colleges. It is a "punch card" program in which students will be required to punch holes in their punch cards. The punch cards will be used to record the student's progress in the program.

The Harper College Board last week approved an order for a computer system that will cost the institution $5,712 a month, or about $106,544 a year. The system will be used to record the student's progress in the program.

The computer, an IBM System 360-Model 30, is scheduled for delivery in October 1967. It will not be available for Harper's first class which will enter the college's main shift dorm at Elk Grove High School west fall.

Other "games" are being used in such scientific disciplines as physics, chemistry, mathematics and biology.

Roy A. Siedel, Harper's computer expert, said that the computer system even he used to organize the college's computer administration can also be assisted by computers.

In computer - like language Siedel said the computer could be used to "punch" something called a "total information system."

"The system will employ the technology of random storage and random access memory to enable the administrator to secure complete, comparable information on all aspects of the educational institution."

In pre-computer English the means the computer could help in finding answers to such administrative questions as: "How many textbooks will be needed for Home Psychology 177?"

It all seems disconcerting to the public. Who knows, perhaps the Harper students' dilemma will be solved in a couple of months on a cardboard punch card.

Some Day

The thought of universal military training for all American youths is intriguing.

The idea, of course, is not to send all of our youngsters to Viet Nam, but to spread equally the honor of serving the nation. It is difficult for this way to to imagine any individual enjoying the benefits of our country to waste to avoid sharing in the obligations.

The fact that the government has developed such programs as the Peace Corps, Job Corps, Neighborhood Youth Corps, etc., seems to establish the fact that there is need for various services that could be counted as service to one's country.

Our youngsters are not ideal leaders, as are going to serve the nation from commitment in their own sweat and blood. The needs of our Armed Forces will be high on the priority list. These fighting men must be selected on the basis of their physical and mental abilities but there are plenty of jobs in the services that a woman could perform better, even if it is nothing less important than making out the pay vouchers.

Seriously, many girls told interviews from one Chicago newspaper that they do not desire the thought of serving their country. Maybe some could perform actual work, or find a place in the Peace Corps. The main point is that they would be sharing in the obligations that are now reserved for the select few.

Naturally, many of the programs of our government could not mesh with the draft program but it is no reason that the government must not create a national youth commission that could strive to give young citizens an opportunity to serve in some direction, probably one that interests them most.

If these young people know

they are obligated to one or two years of service to their country — and they know that every other American is obligated — it would become an accepted and honorable service of their lives.

A young man can find valuable experience in serving in our distressed cities or the undeveloped nations as a matter of humanity, if felt, service to the country could be a meaningful meaning than learning how to kill.

It would become a valuable life in a military for the people who will inherit the nation.

Vantage Point

What's become of the jet age? Since the Korean War, the U. S. Air Force has become known for its stock in fighters and super bombers that are sent to deliver their share of death and destruction.

That's not the way it is in Viet Nam. While there are jet fighters and bombers in action, the jet fighting — the support of ground forces — is being done by a courageous, little-known group of pilots flying World War II vintage prop-driven aircraft.

The reason is that, for most tactical ground purposes in Viet Nam, jet planes just require too many facilities that are not available for their efficient operation.

We get a close look at the "new Air Force" during a whirlwind tour of the headquarters of the Special Air Warfare Center here at Hurlbert Field, the west coast of Florida, last week.

Hurlbert Field is the home of the Air Command — "Jaunt Jim" as they are known to their jet age air force contemporaries.

The Air Command is a different type of command. It is the image of the fighting man personified. He is the image of the ground-pounder, the backbone of the fighting force.

THE AIR COMMAND has traded the crashed, 50-ton jet for a more useful, sand-shedding biplane fighter command. But, first, officers' sticks have given way to jungle fatigues.

One distinction air command ground personnel in Viet Nam, jet planes just require too many facilities that are not available for their efficient operation.

The planes flown by air command and the Tactical Air Command in this new type of war are just as unique as their crews.

From the C-47 "Goosebumps" of the World War II time to the single engine Cessna used for military spotting, psychological warfare and small supply missions, TAC has developed a completely new technique of fighting what they label "counter-insurgency war."

Our undisciplined war in Viet Nam is just such an operation. Like the U. S. Army and Marine Corps, air command is fighting the ground war, using the same type of guerrilla tactics as the enemy.

OLIVIER MOSEY at Hurlbert Field were officers and men of the 448th Combat Crew Training Squadron. They greeted our party, escorted by Lt. Col. Len Hughes, of Marine Province, and Maj. Fred Force, of Mandanville, to jungle ground.

Conditions at Hurlbert Field are as close to those found in South East Asia as can be simulated in this country. Hurlbert is surrounded by dense swamps. Jungle practice landings, made the size of war, are made in the swamps and are "operational" on a day and night basis. War knows no time schedule.

Most of the officers in charge of the training operations are Viet Nam veterans — almost who know the score. They have been there and survived and are passing along their secrets to those who will take their place fighting this counter-insurgency type of war.

They aren't playing games. They are preparing to fight the ground war that has no front or rear lines — a war that claims victims on the shores of Saigon as well as in the jungle.

From Col. Beuten's not a tiny jet you ask for a first hand study, tough and completely bad on higher pilot to General T. G. Corbin, who is distinguishable from the command center by his hair, it's all business — grim and deadly business.

Developing and perfecting techniques to fight this type of war is the mission of the Special Air Warfare Center. These techniques are built around a fleet of aircraft that look like they would be more at home as the pride of a business Republic's air force.

As Col. Beuten, wing commander of the training squadron put it, "this is the only operation in the world."

Two Free Throws Win Tilt

Wheeling 5 Nearly Upsets Arlington in Overtime Test

Senior Larry Melchione sank a pair of free throws in overtime Friday to save Arlington from an overtime defeat at the hands of a point-up Wheeling squad that refused to admit defeat.

Melchione's two points were the only ones he scored, but he broke a 35-34 tie created by teammate Dave Lockwood's fast goal and gave Arlington its final 61-59 margin of victory.

The win left the Cardinals unbeaten in five contests, but the team's overall record of 10-10, including a win of victory paraded some flashy statistics about the Arlington Interscholastic.

A WILD Wheeling rally in the third period changed the complexion of things, though, as four field goals by Tom Batsdale sparked a 21-point scoring white Arlington was held to a fielder and four free throws.

The rally allowed Wheeling to overtake the Hawks, but with Batsdale putting in the go-ahead basket just before the horn sounded.

The teams fought on overtime, but the Cardinals' defense was as up-bell battle for the Cardinals, with the Cardinals' defense as up-bell battle for the Cardinals.

Coming into an overtime was an uphill battle for the Cardinals, with the Cardinals' defense as up-bell battle for the Cardinals.

Three Records Tumble as St. Viator Tankers Swamp Arlington in Dual

Three records fell Saturday at St. Viator's varsity team swamped Arlington 68-27 at the varsity's pool.

The first mark tumbled in the first event, when Arlington's medalist relay (consisting of Lowell Chry, John Erickson, Scott Gulliford, and Dick Robinson) won the 100-yard freestyle in 1:15.9, a new school record.

The CARDINAL relay grabbed off first honors in the event in a disappointing reverse of St. Viator's 1:51.1 final. The rating came on an early jump by the final.

Arlington's new mark replaces an old record set in 1964 of 1:51.6.

Bill Singh of St. Viator was the next record — swimmer, winning the 100-yard freestyle in 1:04.3, a new school record.

The old standard had been set at 1:05.1 in 1964.

JOHN ERIKSON of Arlington rounded out the varsity standard — setting, putting a new mark into the books for the 100-yard breast stroke.

The senior swimmer won home in 1:07.9 Jim Spear of St. Viator held the old mark, 1:08.5.

Frederick Rich Lynch of St. Viator led the Lion relay squad to an 8:14 victory with a pair of record — setting performance. His 56.7 in the 100-yard free style set a new school record, creating the old mark of 58 seconds. He also won the 150-yard free, finishing in 2:13.6, shattering the old record of 1:34.

Arlington's medalist relay, Erickson, and Dick Robinson won the Cardinals' only victory. Robinson was the 100-yard free style, posting a 56.4.

Arlington Falls To 2nd in Gym Test

Arlington's allegedly rebuilding Cardinal gymnastics team finished Friday by falling second in the Everett Invitational meet, which was really the first of the five top teams from the previous season.

The Cardinals tallied 66 points and took two individual championships in the 100-pound class. Placido Estevez was a post-and-rail.

EVERETT'S powerhouse ran off with top honors, taking first place with 95 points, while Niles West placed fourth on a 75-point count, and Waco Invitational took 51 1/2 points. Taylor and Don Ebers were the big losers for Arlington, both taking their first place awards.

Taylor, a senior, scored an outstanding 47 average on the vault.

Deerfield Is Villain as Knights Lose

Rugged Deerfield slugged Prospect's victory Saturday by a 35-0 count on the Knights' team.

The unbeaten Warriors landed Coach Dave Zarn's only fit to win victory and a pair of drives in 12 minutes. Taylor was dunned by junior Gary Carter, who panned his points at 154 pounds in 4:31. The drive went to Gary Morrow at 103 pounds and Terry Holbrook at 127.

The Cardinals allowed McGraw and Holbrook to miss out on the 100-pound class as both saw their personal high jump to 10.7. The Cardinals' record in four prospects this season, as both saw their personal marks up to 10.7. Two unbeaten strikers slipped through when Taylor Curry fell for the first time in the 145-pound count, and Rick Branch bowed at 95.

Prospect will try to start another streak next Friday in the Knights' conference opener at home against Wheeling at 7:30 p.m.

A summary of the Deerfield team:

Holds Record

Roger Murphy, Northwestern's record-setting pass runner, has a new record. Murphy proved as spectacular as throwing a ball has when he led his team at catching one last fall. Tom Murphy was the leading player in the Central Illinois College football league in 1966, compiling a record of 11-1 for the Bloomington, Ill., team in the league. Two other players on Northwestern's team or at these school records were held in the Central Illinois season of competition with the Wildcats.

Slate Tourney

The 1967 NCAA Midwest regional basketball tournament will be played at Northwestern's McAfee Hall, March 17-18, in the field will be the Big Ten and Southwestern Conference champions and two or three representatives.

route to side home honor, while Don Ebers scored 78 in the vault. The Cardinals were the only team to place in the five top teams from the previous season.

ARLINGTON WAS unable to win any second or third place, but Rick Weaver placed 10th in the vault and Art Wagner duplicated the finish in the all-around competition.

Tomorrow the Cardinals travel to New True East, the state meet of Head Coach Tom Walbrook. The 4:30 clock match will feature Arlington dual meet competition. Arlington is 1-0 while the Indians are 1-0.

City Fire Marshal Job May Remain

Alderman Donald Winsa of Rolling Meadows thinks the city may soon have another fire marshal.

"In my committee report Tuesday night, I plan to recommend that the city retain the ordinance calling for the position of city fire marshal," Winsa said. He added that he plans to recommend Thomas F. Fogarty, acting chief of the Rolling Meadows Fire Protection District, for the job.

The decision to recommend continuation of the position of city fire marshal contrasts a recommendation from either William Muska made after the resignation of Jerry Howell, a St. Charles fireman and the city's former fire marshal at the time Muska took the city council that he favors a building the office.

"The city attorney has told me that we are not in the fire protection business," Muska said.

Winn, alderman of the council's building and zoning committee, said he is making his recommendation because the city has been without a fire marshal since the fire protection district was not the same.

"We have to have a fire marshal to make sure that the fire prevention laws are enforced," Winsa said, noting that some of Rolling Meadows is in the Palatine Fire Protection District.

The fact that Fogarty will get the job is probably as surprising as anyone. A meeting in the farmhouse attended by Winsa, Fogarty, Muska and trustees of the Rolling Meadows Fire Protection District was held several weeks ago to discuss the position. The press was not admitted to the meeting.

"The city is in a real bad legal position," one alderman said, criticizing the fact that the post of fire marshal is not a separate position.

A few days after the closed meeting, Winsa and Muska gave a report on the conflict. Winsa, when asked why the meeting was informal and unofficial, he stated that the fire marshal issue was discussed.

Muska said that matters of taxation and personnel were discussed.

states, there are matters a council may legally discuss behind closed doors.

At the council meeting, Winsa refused to give the council a report on the meeting. "One of the things I was told was that when pressed by alderman Donald Winsa, Fogarty had no comment."

Winsa said that Fogarty had been appointed fire marshal. Winsa said that Fogarty had been appointed fire marshal. Winsa said that Fogarty had been appointed fire marshal.

and with the problem of money the city is having, we think Fogarty's salary is a bit of a waste money," Winsa said. Fogarty's salary is $10,000 a year to serve without pay.

Fogarty is considered the best candidate for the full-time chief of the fire district. Winsa said that the district trustees decide to make the decision. The Rolling Meadows fire marshal, Jerry Howell, was considered for the position.

Winsa was quoted as saying that he believed the city should hire a full-time professional firefighter before they considered hiring a full-time chief.

School Boundary Problem Tackled

bers with a projected enrollment next year. Edlund said in the report that the district was experiencing a "decreasing number of students" which might indicate that a school would not be needed.

Last night, McLenahan warned to board not to abandon the idea of closing the district in two years. The first students to occur in the history will be the present parents, eighth and ninth graders, who will enter high school in their attendance boundaries.

Don't feel anything is justly closed, said a general picture of the report I submitted to you two weeks ago," Dr. Edlund told the board members.

In several areas it appears that the roll-back areas would overlap. Open enrollment, which students may select their schools, may be considered. Open enrollment was one of the final suggestions made by retiring superintendent Harold L. Shumaker.

Overcoming is a serious problem now in Arlington High School and will be a problem in the district's future.

Another recommendation of the report was that the district consider the 1947-48 school year when the school district was in the process of closing the district.

The board also talked this matter until the January meeting. McLenahan was requested to prepare additional information, specifically relating to the boundaries on the south side of Arlington Heights. Board President H. W. Armstrong suggested that the district consider the 1947-48 school year when the school district was in the process of closing the district.

Only a Man Can Pick Perfect Tree

What happened to the needles?

BY MARILYN HELLERS

Oh, Christmas Tree! Is this a song or a lament your house? Seeing all the Christmas trees being set up all over the city, it's hard to help but remind people of the job of selecting a Christmas tree. It's that nerve ending search for "the perfect tree," the one that really doesn't exist.

Doesn't everyone wait until the last minute hoping the weather will break and get a little warmer? But the weather never co-operates (if anything, it gets colder or drier) and you.

One housewife I know decided to start really early on her search for "THE tree." She picked the children in the car and decided to go where the trees are truly fresh, to the Wisconsin border.

THE DAY was a little brisk - about five degrees, but clear. After an unusual drive (can't every day with children even if the troop arrived at the first lot.

Nothing suited our housewife there, so she wandered on her way. After several such stops, she arrived at a place where a man was just adjusting his tree.

"Look around," he said. "All our trees are guaranteed to hold their needles until after Christmas. How could anything be better than a guaranteed tree, she asked herself. She finally selected her tree, tucked it in the trunk and drove home smug.

All the way home, valuations of her husband's reaction danced through her head. How pleased he would be to escape the annual search for a tree.

She was right, too. Her husband was much relieved.

WHEN the time came to put up the tree, everyone gathered around to decorate this perfect tree. After the work was completed though, and everyone sat down to inspect, a peculiar sound was heard by all.

Investigation proved that the noise was the dropping of the guaranteed fresh pine needles on the floor.

"The very fresh needles" continued to drop right up to Christmas.

Queen, encouraged by the housewife's husband, would sit around the tree stamping their feet in order to hear the falling of needles bouncing off branches and ornaments as they cascaded to the rug.

When the time came to take the tree down, it stood there - branches and ornaments still with a pile of needles on the rug.

THAT cured the housewife, you think?

Oh, no. Understand, the next time she decided to select a living room tree, barely any room remained for packages or presents.

This time, she took both children and her husband for moral support when she set off for Wisconsin. Her husband insisted the same man would select the tree, but he was.

After surveying the lot and determining which tree was wanted, the housewife approached the unsuspecting salesman.

The salesman, who anyone would expect to come back and complain about a tree from the previous Christmas was so great that the man was still smiling with his mouth open after loading the biggest tree in his lot into the back of her car.

That Christmas the needles stayed on the tree, but the tree was so heavy that it took the living room. Barely any room remained for packages or presents.

Now, the housewife has promised to let her husband select their Christmas tree from a neighborhood lot. Last year, it took 10 minutes!

Now You Can Rent a Santa By the Visit

Al Binder believes that Santa should be a real professional. He doesn't think that children should be subjected to haphazard Santas.

Binder, a tall, dark-haired young man who is employed as recreation supervisor at the Glenview Park District, is in the business of renting Santas. Like the car rental company, Binder's motto is "we're harder."

"Santa Claus is too important to a child to let an amateur play the part," Binder said. He has organized a business that rents specially trained Santas for personal appearances.

"We have three men," Binder said, "and all of them have completed the Santa Training Institute. The course, according to Binder, takes about two weeks to complete."

The course behind the whiskers of Binder's Santas includes three young college students. "They make good Santas," Binder said, "because they really enjoy their work."

BINDER GOT THE idea of renting out Santa Claus early in November. "Since then, with the help of a little advertising, we're received at least 60 phone calls," Binder said.

The charge for a visit from Santa is $5, with an additional charge of $1 per child if there are more than three children in the family.

"Parents don't care to take their children to a department store to see Santa because the child doesn't really get a chance to talk to him," Binder said. "Our Santas stay in the home for at least 15 minutes."

Binder's Rent-a-Santa business has been going along so well that the young promoter plans to continue his agency during the year.

"I hope to train and rent clowns for children parties throughout the year," he says. "We haven't made much money yet because we've been paying our Santas well, but I think this could turn out to be a very lucrative, year-round business," Binder said.

Some Day

The defeat of 250,000 in bonds to build new facilities in Mount Prospect's elementary school system should come as no surprise to people who have been watching closely the taxpayer's red ink.

Dist. 57's expensive Saturday is the same as that of Arlington Heights elementary school Dist. 23 that has built a $1.5 million school to improve its junior high school program and to expand school buildings. The proposition was defeated.

The Arlington Heights district wants to increase the tax rate for educational and building purposes. The proposition, was defeated Sept. 24.

What do the school districts do now?

The only thing they can do is build another referendum. Legally they must wait 60 days but in the meantime the problem does not go away. If anything, it grows.

Arlington Heights, for instance, not only must wait but has a classroom shortage that will soon need a solution. Is a building program school officials have a time span of about 18 months between approval of bonds by voters and actual occupancy of classrooms by students. Obviously, they must plan in advance.

Mount Prospect officials made a major project out of their bond issue. The committee studied the various problems of the district and the referendum was held along the lines of the committee's recommendations.

Arlington Heights had the referendum. There was little, if any, citizen participation. It may not be a perfect election, but Mount Prospect did not lose by as many votes as Arlington Heights.

... by Frank E. Von Arx

After the September defeat, Arlington Heights officials could neither look and decide a citizens committee is needed. This group is now making a study and will report to the school board.

The council as it sits marks the end of the time when school officials get automatic approval from voters. School administrators may be reluctant to agree, but public relations and "selling" education to the taxpayer is a more big challenge of the moment.

"We all KNOW that Lyndon's sending like on a global tour is dirty politics—now, we've got to figure out WHY!"

Subsidized Youth

Los Angeles has been having trouble with certain teenagers and older youths who have virtually taken over the famed Sunset Strip, once the playground of celebrities and gawking tourists. Attempts to crack down have led to near rioting.

A representative of this decidedly minority group, with the flowing long hair that represents the new conformity of "lured in, turned on and dropped out" nonconformists, was interviewed by a television reporter.

Where did he live? Oh, around — with friends, was the reply from the awkward, constipated youth.

Where did he get his money? From his parents, mostly.

All of which led one observer to comment: "These people want the square to keep the world going so they can nonconform it."

It may also suggest a new slogan for parents who feel guilty about not having bequeathed an absolutely perfect world to their children: "No subsidization without participation."

Vitamin A Smoke

A researcher has discovered evidence that dosing cigarettes with vitamin A nullifies the effects of suspected carcinogens in tobacco smoke.

Tobacco companies are keeping their ulcers but have not been added to liquor long before fingers crossed. Not only could it make for a cigarette, safe, it could make them positively healthy, because the vitamin A in there would counteract also help counteract the pollution air that is breathed in by every body, puffing and nonpuffing alike.

It makes a nice pipe dream, sayway.

Vantage Point

"There are two types of officers in today's U. S. Air Force — those who have been to Viet Nam and those who are going."

Author of that statement was Capt. Dallas House, command pilot of the VT-29 that whisks our Midwest jets group of 20 reporters and photographers to Hurlburt Field, Fla., last week for a tour of the Tactical Air Command (TAC) Special Warfare Training Center.

Capt. House is a veteran of Korea now stationed in Ramstein Field in Illinois. His present mission is to fly VIPs around the country. The post is a new one for Capt. House. He just returned to the United States from Turkey where he witnessed the effectiveness of counter-insurgency forces in action.

Li. Col. Lou Hughes, Mount Prospect, is welcomed to Hurlburt Field, Fla. by information Sgt. Robert Brown.

Counter-insurgency, or COIN as it is designated by TAC, is the new type of warfare that has challenged American resources and military power throughout the world.

An briefing officers at Hurlburt Field put it: "There have been more than 100 incidents of combat in the world since World War II and only four have been of the conventional warfare type that American troops are best trained for and prepared to fight."

THE OTHER "wins" have been guerrilla operations — Cuba, Dominican Republic, Algeria. The Corps and its men. To learn to fight this type of war, America has developed a new concept of battle based on the utilization of superior air power to support ground troops and cover air forces.

In order to maximize this air advantage, and to provide support to ground troops, American air forces must be more than pilots, navigators, flight engineers and mechanics. They must learn the basic techniques of the paratrooper, medic, communications expert and jungle fighter.

This is not a simple task. The Air Force has long been known as the glamor branch of the service. Today, that image is changing and changing rapidly.

They are creating a new type of airman. They are training officers to use a carbine with as much skill as a monkey fighter; airman to do a light holding action at

New Breed of Flying Warriors

Sweet Smell of Success

By Catherine O'Donnell

That sweet smell you notice on 5. Forest is success in the candy making department. You've read here that Stephen and Dee have been assisting Shil Chanish, Pam and Sue on the Christmas holiday. The three young men from India attend the Illinois Institute of Technology. The Junes have promised to introduce them to various phases of life in America. One of them is just this old-fashioned candy making. This is an introducing when you consider that neither of the Junes have ever made candy but have a friend who does. The friend is Corinne Sparks.

Corinne is the wife of Robert Sparks, principal of Thomas Junior High School. The candy making session will be held in their home on Saturday. Last year Mary Beaumont taught Corinne how to make the hard candy. The first thing you need is a marble slab. Lee Wilkins, a friend of Corinne's, just happened to have one. It came from her father in North Prairie, Wis. He knew that La Rue wanted one and when the old bank building in his town was being torn down he got the slab for his daughter. She and her husband, Bob, are bringing the slab. Everyone else is bringing 15 pounds of sugar. The three couples and the three guests will have dinner and then the sugar will fly. "I'll take five people to make the candy," said Corinne. "You see, after you boil it long enough, the mixture is poured onto a powdered sugar marble slab. Then everyone has to cut it quickly with knives."

The Sparks ladies have been through many candy making nights. Kim, 11, recently had all of her friends in for a night of candy making. Twelvemonth-old Guy has his friends scheduled. Corinne has no idea of how much candy they have made.

Black Walnut Delight

Sweet Tooth For Holidays -- It's Walnuts

"In the season to indulge your sweet tooth. This year, brighten the holiday buffet -- or the kitchen table, for that matter -- with a better cake lightened with egg whites and luscious with chopped black walnuts.

Black walnut delight, as the cake is called, is an all-purpose dessert created by home economists for the Fisher Nut Co. The dessert can be made in an ordinary loaf pan or a shaped mold for greater attractiveness.

To add a festive touch, top the cake with cinnamon sugar icing and cherry halves. Holly leaves look pretty arranged at the base.

BLACK WALNUT DELIGHT

- 1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 4 eggs, separated
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup nuts
- 1 cup finely chopped black walnuts

Cream butter and sugar until light. Beat in egg yolks, one at a time. Add vanilla. Mix dry ingredients together, measuring 1/4 cup. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk, beginning and ending with dry ingredients.

Mix together remaining flour and walnuts, add to batter, mixing just until blended. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; fold into batter.

Pour into greased and floured 8 x 5 x 3 1/2 inch (2 qt.) loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes. Cool in pan for 5 minutes. Turn onto rack and cool completely.

If she does, she may deprive the youngsters of an important part of the season's sport-work.

Yes, work. That's a minute, and you'll realize that most of the time, the youngsters are the ones who make the preparations that make the season festive.

Years from now, your children may not recall the doll or truck or giant Santa brought in 1964. But they will remember if they have made time for the youngsters.

The youngsters' gift and card, if children help retain the atmosphere of the season -- something that each year seems to lose ground in a cash-register rush to odds who have when.

CARDS ARE easy to make if the youngster uses position or applies to artistic. Just cut the apple or potato on one side in the desired design, ink the design and stamp it onto white stock paper.

Colored construction paper for the minor times and ornaments. Paste the colored paper on white paper and decorate with bits of colored paper.

Children more advanced in art work can draw a nativity scene with ink and cut and cover it lightly with dry white water color. The black ink will show through the paper, transmitting a nativity scene.

Simple ornaments for the tree, made on dining table construction card stock with a glue stick and gold paper.

The traditional way to make a perfect table centerpiece is to use a wheel. Children can shape their own wheel and stamp it onto white stock paper.

Coach Led Arlington Gridders From Rags to Riches

Why Did Allen Resign, and Who Will Replace Him?

BY BOB CASTELLONE

Coach Al Allen (center) of Arlington discusses strategy on the defense with an assistant coach, Len Burt, during a game last fall. Burt is one of several possible candidates to succeed Allen, who resigned this week after leading the Cardinals to their first championship since 1935. The railroad town in Arlington's right hand became a trade-mark during his four years at the Cardinal helm.

"Next to my family and my God, I love coaching more than anything in the world."

Those words, uttered last night by Al Allen, explain why his decision to resign as a head coach at Arlington High School, was a tough one to make.

Allen, who led Arlington's football from rags to riches in four short seasons, and coach emeritus, ended his coaching career this week. His resignation becomes effective Jan. 27.

But the end of the Al Allen era actually began 12 years ago, long before he even considered coming to Arlington High School.

That was when he became associated with what is now known as A.A.R. Allen Associates, now an Arlington Heights-based sales organization. The firm is employee are primarily teachers and coaches. They serve as consultants to various manufacturing and wholesaler firms across the state.

Allen says one of the primary purposes of his business is to help educate people in the teaching and coaching professions, providing them with out-of-school employment opportunities.

Now a statewide operation, Allen has hopes of seeing it develop into a national program, and the next few months will be critical in the development of the business, he says.

It is unlikely that a successor would be chosen from within the Arlington staff, though Allen says he would like to see a coach from the district.

Allen Groves, who resigned last year, was the coach of opening up and building a program, and it is difficult to see what Allen could have done to develop this past season.

Girl, 4, Hurt In Crash Of Auto, Bus

A young girl suffered internal injuries Friday night when the car in which she was riding collided with a school bus at Palatine and Buffalo Grove Rd.

Stuart Budner, 4, of Des Plaines, was admitted to the intensive care unit of Northwestern Community Hospital. Officials said last night that her condition is much improved and that she would soon be released from intensive care.

Stuart's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry L. Budner, were also injured. Budner is a good friend of the hospital suffering from head injuries. His wife was treated for hand injuries and released.

Budner was taken for further treatment of his injuries after he allegedly drove his car into the side of a school bus. The school bus driven by Edward Krueger, 40, of Niles.

The school bus hit a truck driven by John DeWitt, 52, of Barrington.

The bus was empty except for the driver at the time of the crash.

Sanitarian Describes Inspections

The village's restaurant inspection campaign is starting on a second month, but it has "only scratched the surface," said the village's sanitarian.

That was Village Sanitarian Robert Dawson when he was visiting about 15 of Arlington Heights' 130 food-serving establishments.

Dawson has issued one citation notice and threatened to close several other restaurants as a result of his inspection.

"Arlington Heights restaurants aren't any better or worse than any place else in the health standards," he said.

"However, we still have many problems and so many we will all of our health problems which in six months would be finished," he said.

"Each restaurant operation on a little different basis and each has its own special problems," he said. "For instance some use very complicated methods of cleaning their tables and their floors get dirty. Others are the opposite."

SOME PROBLEMS, HOWEVER, ARE RECURRENT. Among them are:

"Physical plant inadequacies. These Dawson says are the most serious problems. Many restaurants do not have a proper room to store food or provide locker or washroom space for their employees."

Sanitarians have a tendency also allow their facilities to run down.

"Reapid employees turnover. This problem is related to maintenance difficulties. It's hard to find good dishwashers and clean-up men," Dawson says.

He says restaurant owners who have renewed him cordially.

"I'm really interested in improving the community and the village ordinance. To do that I must get to the source of the problem," he said. "The party hard to do when they know you can't clean them."

Dawson says his face in getting known around town. Restaurant owners are also interested in the health standards. He has been called "the White Knight."

"Sometimes I walk into a restaurant and the lady says 'Where's my son?' and I find him in another place," Dawson said.

Three members of the Jerry L. Budner family of Palatine were injured Friday night when their car was involved in a collision with a school bus on Palatine and Buffalo Grove Rd.

Yule Displays Hit By Vandals

With less than two weeks left until Christmas, the Village said it is in the red.

For as long as the village youth, however, the spirit is working in reverse.

Police reported a large number of thefts and vandalism over the weekend in connection with outside Christmas displays.

Victor Lewis, 909 N. Champlain, told police Saturday that 35 colored balls were taken from a display in front of his home.

Three strings of lights were in a display outside the home of George Kovacs, 404 S. Dayton.

Russell Hanson, 15 W. Oak, reported that the theft of strings of lights from his display.

Yesterday two youths pulled a string of lights from a tree in a display outside the home of Wilbert Schwartz, 710 N. Berkey. The lights hit the picture window in front of the house, breaking the storm window.

Water Pollution Rules Enacted

The Illinois Sanitary Water Board has established regulations to control water pollution.

The rules govern all types of water pollution and were set to meet standards imposed by the Federal Water Quality Act of 1965.

They will apply to the Illinois River, the Des Plaines River, downstream from the Chicago Sanitary and Ship Canal, the Rock River and tributary streams crossing the Illinois-Indiana boundary; Ohio River and tributary streams; the Rock River, the Fox River, and the Kankakee River.

At a meeting in Springfield last week the board took action against 13 water pollution violators.

Two cases involved Chicago area violators. The board ordered the International Metals and Chemical Corp., Chicago Heights, to discontinue, or on or before Jan. 1, 1967, the discharge of industrial waste that result in changing stream conditions in Third Creek.

Company officials were notified that if waste treatment facilities are under construction by Jan. 1, the corporation will be in compliance with the order.

A similar action was taken against the City of Chicago Heights. The city was ordered to stop dumping improperly treated industrial waste.

Punch Card College Planned

Students who attend Harper College will get a fully computerized education.

Their admission applications will be filed, their classes scheduled, their grades reported, their health and attendance records kept, their scholarship awards and loans recorded, their honor roll and probation lists prepared and their bills calculated by computers.

But, according to a report to the college board: "The primary use of the data processing facilities at Harper College will be in the instructional function."

The students who really want to sell out in the electronic age can register for courses in computer programming, systems analysis and keypunch and teletype terminal operations.

Even the traditional wouldn't be able to escape cybernetics. Plans are being made for computerizing teachers. Tests, for instance, can be devised for teacher use to aid in class grading.

HARPER officials also have their eyes on "gaming" techniques which are now being used in many colleges. In an "executive game," a student plays business scenarios and makes decisions typical of those made by business managers. The student feels what he thinks is the answer to a typical business problem but the computer instantly evaluates the decision.

Other "games" are being used in such successful disciplines as political science.

High Price Placed on Computers

Computer education comes expensive.

The Harper College Board last week approved an order for a computer system which will cost the institution $171,200 a month rent, or about $104,544 a year. Fortunately, the state will pay about three-fourths of the cost.

The completed IBM 360/50 computer model 20, scheduled for delivery in October 1969, it will not be available for Harper's first class which will enter the college's main hall doors at 515 Grove High School next fall.

The first stop was the new

The $44,000 bridge was to

316 Units Planned

$4 Million Apt. Project

Developers have proposed a $4 million, 316-unit apartment complex for the northeast corner of Dempster and Linensmen Rd. on the outskirts of Mount Prospect.

Recent for-rezoning two adjoining parcels of property at the site was brought before the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals yesterday by Adames & Brett Realtors and Builders of Morton Grove.

Currently, the property is zoned under the county R-4 classification making it available only to single family residential development. Developers seek to change the current classification to R-5 and R-6, multiple family dwellings.

Robert Heston, Mount Prospect attorney, presented the case for the developers and the American National Bank & Trust Co., property owners of record of the parcel.

OBJECTING to the zoning was Robert Moore, village attorney of Mount Prospect, Robert J. DiLeonardo, representing the City of Des Plaines, and Carl Lindorf, 1409 Hickory, Mount Prospect, representing the Elk Ridge Villa Homeowner's Assn.

Moore was granted permission by Robert Marks, chairman of the rezoning board, to present his case.

presented the original plans for rezoning. Brett said the zoning board.

Brett was questioned by DiLeonardo regarding zoning and water. Brett said he had received a letter from Lee D. Perry, chairman of the Council of Utility Co., that there are no adequate sewer and water facilities at the site.

The question of sewer drainage and water supply was brought up by Moore. Brett said a drainage ditch along Dempster is not, but that is understood a sewer system would be possible.

Brett said he did not know of any flooding problems on the property.

SAMUEL FOOTLER, representing Food-Rose Associates, architect of the proposed apartment complex, was Heston's second witness.

He presented detailed plans of the structures which include two buildings of efficiency and two two-bedroom apartments to be constructed on each of the two parcels of land.

It was estimated by the proponent for the rezoning the 65 per cent of the land would be open space.

Final witness for the developers was George Krasenberg, land planning and building consultant, Chicago.

He said that he had declined to testify in favor of the rezoning of the property at the 1962 zoning board hearing.

KRASENBERG said the Mount Prospect area was "one of two in Cook County where there has been the most change in use and rezoning since 1960."

roned R-4. Heston said that the owners have agreed to this and it will go into the record.

MARKE called for witnesses or statements from the opponents of the proposed rezoning. None was offered. Those who were submitted to the board in writing.

The Cook County Zoning Board will preside at the rezoning and testimony, Marks said, and render its decision as a later date.

He said that as far as the proposed building is concerned, a part of subdivision must be submitted dividing the property into four lots with appropriate setbacks and conforming to county building regulations.

re-zoning is to be granted under the present R-5 and R-6 zoning ordinances.

If an amendment now before the county zoning board regarding a licensing of the storage required for building apartment dwellings is passed, the proponents may make applications for special use, allowing them to construct two buildings on each parcel of land.

It is any event, Marks said, they would be bound by the restrictions and plans of action brought out at yesterday's hearing.

However, Marks said he requested that owners of the property agree to a covenant to run for 10 years stipulating that no alcoholic beverages be sold on the property which may be rezoned.

Village Board Committees -- How They Work

MARKET DAY
Wednesday, December 14, 1966

"A camel is a horse that has been put together by a committee."

This is the way one veteran municipal manager describes the committee system of village government. In Mount Prospect, however, its constituents, comprised of members of the village board, keep the wheels of municipal government turning smoothly.

Each of the six elected village trustees sits on at least two of the six committees. Daniel Coughlin, an ex-officio member of each of the committees and other at-large members.

Committees of the Mount Prospect Village board are building, finance, fire and police, public health and safety and public works.

Committee chairmen are Parker Eldern, public works; Harry Bouch, public health and safety; Robert Collier, building; Frank Bergen, fire and police; Robert Tschert, judiciary; and Joseph Gritland, finance.

It is the policy of the present village administration to delegate to committee various problems brought before the village board.

This enables the administration to take a more personal look at all problems and report on them to the village board. The entire board must vote on committee recommendations.

Each of the six committees is important in the area it covers. None can be described as more influential than another since each deals with a completely different realm of administration.

Committee members hold meetings on a one-a-month basis. When the action is heavy, however, committees meet more often. The committees are regularly updated for the continuously regular village board meetings.

A list of charges to committee is kept by Village Clerk Richard Moore. Any charges are regularly reported to each trustee of importance are are heard in the committee room. It is a policy that matters referred to committee must be referred back to the board within 60 days.

At tonight's meeting of the village board, no less than 14 village problems will be referred to committee for action. If each of these problems needs investigation by the entire board, meetings would run on until the early hours of the morning.

The board has a policy of ending all meetings at 10:30 p.m. on the theory that trustees, after putting in a day's work on their regular job, just can't make well conceived decisions if they are in session any later.

Here are a few of the problems confronting the village that will be referred to committee by Mayor Coughlin at tonight's village board meeting.

Shopping in Royal Style Starts Early

Christmas always starts early for Queen Elizabeth II.

Being the queen, she has to send Christmas cards to so many people. This year she started signing them a few days each day -- when she returned to London in October from her annual vacation at her estate at Balmoral in the Scottish Highlands.

She had a family group photograph taken in September which is believed to be used as her personal greeting card for relatives and friends.

For official greetings she uses an engraved card, usually bearing a reproduction of a famous painting in the royal collection.

The queen very much enjoys another of her Christmas preparations -- her once-a-year shopping expedition.

Elizabetta normally precedes her from doing any personal shopping in public, and everything has to be brought to her at Buckingham Palace. But she is able to shop for gifts.

So her practice is to drive out early one morning in December to a big department store where she has an apartment.

The manager meets her at the back door and takes her around to choose the gifts for her list of several hundred names.

She always takes a very good look because she is very likely to be making a shop again for another year.

"Her Christmas gifts are never a very expensive because, by royal custom, jewels and other costly presents within the family."

Caucus Begins Listing Names

The heat by the Arlington Heights Caucus for village trustee candidates is now in the running stage.

The caucus is a group of recommendations committee, met last week to set up ground rules and to organize.

The caucus chairman Scott Bell sent letters to presidents of all village organizations, requesting names of possible candidates.

Ball invited persons knowing anyone who might make a good trustee to contact him at CL-2-2677. Those contacted will be notified by Ball if they are interested in appearing before the committee for its advisory.

The interviews will be held confidential.

Last week Village President John G. Woods outlined the caucus he thinks a trustee should be.

Harper Scholarship Fund

William Henry Harper College has its first scholarship fund.

Dr. James Harvey, dean of students, said employees of U.S. Gypsum Research Center, Des Moines, have contributed money to create the scholarship fund for Harper College students attending financial aid.

Heading that fund drive at the research center are John Greenough, Henry Dallast, Donald Lowe and Kenneth Lamm.

According to Dr. Harvey, the U.S. Gypsum Research Scholarship marks the beginning of what he hopes will be a broad program of student financial aid.

Now You Can Rent a Santa By the Visit

At Binder believes that Santa should be a real professional. He doesn't think that children should be subjected to bungling Santas.

Binder, a tall, dark-haired young man who is employed as a recreation supervisor at the Glenview Park District, is in the business of renting out Santas. Like the real retail company, Binder's motto is "no try harder."

"Santa Claus is too important to a child to let an amateur play for personal appearance. We have three men," Binder said, "and all of them have completed the Santa Training Institute." The course, according to Binder, takes an hour to complete.

The Santa behind the whiskers of Binder's Santas belong to three young college students. "They make good Santas," Binder said, "because they really enjoy their work."

BINDER GOT THE idea of renting out Santa Claus early in November. "Since then, with the help of a little advertising, we've received at least 80 phone calls," Binder said.

The charge for a visit from Santa is $5, with an additional charge of 50¢ per child if there are more than three children in the family.

"Parents don't care to take their children to a department store to see Santa because the child doesn't really get a chance to talk to him," Binder said. "Our Santas stay in the home for at least 15 minutes."

Binder's Rent-a-Santa business has been going along so well that the young promoter hopes to continue his agency during the year.

"I hope to train and rent eleven for children parties throughout the year," he says. "We haven't made much money yet because we've been paying our Santas well, but I think that will turn out to be a very lucrative, year-round business," Binder said.

Police Pistol Range Up For OK

Official go-ahead for construction of a new pistol range for the Mount Prospect Police Department is expected at tonight's village board meeting, according to Frank H. Gergen, village board trustee.

Space for the range is available in the basement of Mount Prospect Fire Station 2 on W. Golf Rd. This location was in mind for a pistol range when the station was built, Gergen said.

Funds available for the range total $21,000. This combines $10,000 per side for the purpose from the 1964 General Fund and $11,000 from the appropriation ordinance passed last September.

Stop Sign Is Well Received

Residents of N. Pine Street have expressed appreciation to the Village of Mount Prospect for installing a stop sign at the Pine and Highland.

"The stop sign, installed after a long history of accidents at this intersection, has made a difference in traffic patterns according to residents."

In a letter mailed to the village administration last week, the residents said, "There has been a noticeable increase of traffic on Pine as a result of Willie St. being made one-way going north."

"Undoubtedly, these drivers want to avoid the lights at the Rand Rd. & Route 83 intersection. There are also many drivers who have ignored the posted 25-mile speed limit on North Pine. This has created a hazardous situation."

Kouros Cleared in Morals Case

A five-hour trial in the Arlington Heights Circuit Court ended in a finding of "not guilty" yesterday for Arlington Boulevard resident Thomas Kouros.

Judge Paul A. O'Malley said 35-year-old Kouros is not guilty of a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a child.

Kouros was charged in connection with allegations made by a 15-year-old girl that he had molested her in his place of business, a bar, in Arlington Heights. The girl, who is now 17, said she was 15 when she was molested by Kouros at the site to corroborate any of the girl's testimony.

The defense moved around the attempt by defense attorney Paul Henry Knott to move out the incriminating evidence. He established Kouros in the girl's testimony at the time at which she arrived at the bowling alley and on who gave her three drinks which she claimed to have drunk.

In the most dramatic bit of examination at the trial, Knott established, through questioning of the girl, that she claimed she and Kouros were together in the bowling alley for a period of "from one to one-and-a-quarter hours."

"Did you, at any time," Knott asked the girl, "notice anything unusual about Mr. Kouros physically?"

She testified that she did not. When Knott asked Kouros if, in fact, he had any physical deformities, Kouros said he had left chest muscle area collapsed, the result of a childhood bout with polio.

At Knott's request, he appeared for him to show the deformity as his chest to the jury.

During the entire examination, the girl answered questions calmly, almost happily at times, except at the time when she broke into tears under the form on Kouros' chest.

Knott's questioning, O'Malley called a "5-minute routine." Kouros also appeared accompanied by Assistant State Attorney Paul Rancie.

Rancie interrupted several times to ask O'Malley to admit that he had gone back into the bowling alley with the girl after she had another party, but Kouros denied this. He said, "I don't know," Rancie called the story given by the girl "incredible."

"Her whole story is shot with holes and ambiguity," he said.

Also, Knott said, in a case such as this, "where a man is accused of 'indecent liberties' by a child he has known, the defendant must be proved guilty beyond all reasonable doubt of a doubt."

"Today the state did not even make out a prima facie case. It alone, going back beyond doubt," Knott said, "I respectfully ask your honor to find the defendant 'not guilty.'"

Rancie said he did not feel the story was so incredible.

"I am sure that a 17-year-old girl, who foolishly went into a bowling alley with a man she knew, would have taken this matter very seriously. She is perhaps naive and unaware of the wiles of the law, but her story is not incredible."

IN DELIVERING his verdict, O'Malley diagnosed with the girl's testimony.

"You will never encounter me of this case," he said, "because I am sure that the girl is telling the truth. She is a very nice girl, and she is very honest. She is a very honest girl, and she is very honest."

Judge O'Malley said he felt he was sure that the girl was telling the truth. He said, "I am sure that the girl is telling the truth. She is a very nice girl, and she is very honest. She is a very honest girl, and she is very honest."

Committee Reports On Garbage Bid

The Rolling Meadows sewer service negotiating committee has adopted a resolution recommending that the city accept the bid submitted by Harrison's Trucking, Co. for garbage collection in Rolling Meadows.

The score came Friday night at a meeting of the committee called by city controller R. D. Henniger. The Harrison's bid has been the contract for garbage service in Rolling Meadows for the last two years. The present contract expires Dec. 31.

Three firms submitted bids, but the Harrison bid was the lowest, according to Henniger. The council's negotiating committee has held several meetings with officials of the Harrison firm, but Henniger said that the matter was being delayed because several committee members didn't attend meetings. He pointed out that without the full committee present, the negotiators were reluctant to take any action.

City Clerk Geraldine Davis, standing first meeting of the committee to which Mayor William Mieske asked her, cannot a star when she suggested that the city do not sign any garbage contract.

Mrs. Doreen said that she thought each citizen should provide his own sewerage. Mrs. Doreen, a longtime resident of Rolling Meadows, recalled early days in the city's history when residents could contract for their own sewerage. Alderman Rodolfo Bial, who has been instrumental in the negotiations with the Harrison firm, explained that it would be a lot cheaper for the Harrison firm to use an sewerage system, and that if a firm has only a few customers in a city, they are going to charge those customers a little more to make it worth their while to do it.

But, Alderman John Madigan, and Henniger voted the unanimous acceptance of the Harrison firm's bid. John Madigan, the city's supervisor of public works, and Mrs. Doreen voted against acceptance of the bid. He said he was willing to pick-up waste the city has now, instead the city has now.

One involved a 36-story "pushover" entrance that the builders would like to have removed for apartment buildings. The other is a 24-story steel-framed building for duplex housing.

Last night two Chesterfield representatives told the Planning Commission that they are willing to give up the 24-story apartment buildings on the "pushover" could be retained.

Arlington High School students Diane Smith, Jeff Atkins and Paul Bowen put final touches on homecoming decorations that will be used at "Deep in December," the school's annual Christmas Ball. The decorations will be centered around a 15-foot tree and a blushing ball. All decorations for the dance have been made by the seniors.

Commission Rejects Builder's Compromise

Chesterfield Builders played another hand last night and lost. The Chicago company wants to build a multiunit development north of the village. It wants the 26-story tract that the development will occupy to become part of Arlington Heights but is currently having trouble getting village officials to buy its plan.

The plan calls for a "total community" of about 8,000 residents housed in single family, duplex and apartment dwellings. The plan also calls for a "total community" of about 8,000 residents housed in single family, duplex and apartment dwellings.

Two major points appeared in the village and the builders at the end of their last confrontation Monday.

One involved a 36-story "pushover" entrance that the builders would like to have removed for apartment buildings. The other is a 24-story steel-framed building for duplex housing.

Last night two Chesterfield representatives told the Planning Commission that they are willing to give up the 24-story apartment buildings on the "pushover" could be retained.

With only a slight limitation the Plan Commission rejected the proposal.

The vote reflects in part a concern voiced by Village President John G. Woods last night when the apartment complex was being discussed. He said the village is not a residential area and is not a residential area.

THE VOTE also echoed the recommendations of a special committee report given to the commission by planners Nari Stephens and Fred Almer.

Their report contained eight recommendations five of which were agreeable to the builders. A new controversy, however, arose on one of the recommendations. It appeared that if the village should decide to change its rules governing the size of buildings that the Chesterfield project would have to meet the new rules.

Chesterfield Attorney Howard Burns said that such an ordinance revision would force

400 Cars To Pass His Window

BY BILL PETERSON

After living in Arlington Heights 18 years William J. Wysocki has a limited view of Chicago. A 12-foot fence around his house blocks his view of the city. The fence will not only shut out the view but will also darken his bedroom and kitchen.

His purpose is to shield a 110-space parking lot and an apartment development from the house. The parking lot will be just eight feet from his house.

Last night Wysocki appeared before the Plan Commission and charged it with "putting a fence in the way of the project." The fence is only part of Wysocki's problem. The apartment, the people who'll live in them and the parking lot are also high on his list.

The fence will not only shut out the view but will also darken his bedroom and kitchen. His purpose is to shield a 110-space parking lot and an apartment development from the house. The parking lot will be just eight feet from his house.

THE HOMEOWNER estimated the cost of the fence at $10,000. He said he would like to see the fence removed and the parking lot moved to the back of the property.

Do you know what kind of people move into these areas? They are not the kind of people who would pay $10,000 to see a fence removed. They are not the kind of people who would pay $10,000 to see a fence removed.

Stewart Green, of the village finance department has arranged for his department to remain open four Saturdays for the purchase of Christmas gifts. The office will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Dec. 17, 24, 31, Jan. 7 and Jan. 14, until noon.

Bank Parking Moves North

First National Bank customers will have to cross the railroad tracks if they want to park in the bank's new parking lot.

The bank is currently expanding its main office. Work on the new building has been going on for some time. The bank has decided to build a five-story office building.

The bank is currently expanding its main office. Work on the new building has been going on for some time. The bank has decided to build a five-story office building.

THE BANK has approved the parking proposal which allows the bank to use 21 parking spaces at 210 and 214 N. Arlington Heights Rd. to replace the 10 spaces in the old parking lot.

Then last week Douglas W. Zoning Board president of the bank, told the Zoning Board of Arlington that service with financial interest in the bank have been approved to build a five-story office building.

The office building would be constructed on the same land that the village board has designated for a main office. Work on the new building has been going on for some time.

In order to build on the parking lot the bank had to move the parking lot to the north side of the village officials that future customers would have some place to park.

Cat Climbs a Tree Across Village Line

A couple of neighborhood cats had a fight the other day. The winner must have been a real tiger because the loser climbed a tree as high as he could. Two days later Mr. Leno was still there.

After the first night a call was made to the Arlington Heights Police Department for someone to remove the cat. The policeman and the fireman came and looked. They found the cat had climbed the fireman's tree. It was outside the village line.

"This is a case for Mount Prospect," the man said. They promised to call the proper authorities when they returned to the station.

The neighbors were still waiting Wednesday night when reporters checked with Mount Prospect firemen and learned that they had no record of a call.

Stanton H. Perry of 1511 S. Arlington Heights Rd. wanted to see his cat. He wanted to see his cat. He wanted to see his cat.

When George Collins climbed to the rescue, the cat was just a little frightened and hungry," said Fireman Henry Kugy.

The cat should be a little wiser, too. Next time he should pick on a cat his own size.

Village Second In Court Fines

Arlington Heights ranked second during the month of October in fines collected by the village. Second place was behind the Village of the Circuit Court.

The village collected $3,556.

compared with $7,375 collected by first place Evanston. Joseph J. McDonough, clerk of the court, said that William Park District and Winnetka Park District were low on the list. Neither collected any fines during the month.

But, Alderman John Madigan, and Henniger voted the unanimous acceptance of the Harrison firm's bid. John Madigan, the city's supervisor of public works, and Mrs. Doreen voted against acceptance of the bid. He said he was willing to pick-up waste the city has now, instead the city has now.

Work on Bank Addition Under Way

Work is progressing at the First National Bank in the Arlington Heights branch. The addition is being built on the corner of Milwaukee and N. Arlington Heights Rd.

The addition, planned since 1962, will enable the bank to enlarge its quarters for present service as well as providing space for several departments.

On the east end of the addition will be three drive-in windows. Last month the bank moved itself against building on the wrong side of the tracks by announcing another drive-in facility on the corner of Milwaukee and N. Arlington Heights Rd.

Three new vans, an accounting room, employee lounge and restrooms will be housed in a basement area which will comprise almost 10,000 square feet.

After nearly three years of planning and discussion with village officials about off-street parking, the First National Bank is now under way. It will rise 25 feet in the air in a well surrounded by a second floor terrace.

The addition will be a new north building. It will be a new north building. It will be a new north building.

Arlington National Bank has started work on an addition to its building at 14 E. Campbell.

By now many departments of the bank of rental area available for construction is completed. According to bank officials there will be 7,500 people.

The bank is currently expanding its main office. Work on the new building has been going on for some time. The bank has decided to build a five-story office building.

Board Approves Finances Of Police Counselors At Three High Schools

Financial arrangements for police counselors at Arlington, Forest View, and Wheeling High Schools have been approved by the High School District 214 Board of Education.

At the Monday board meeting the members also learned that the school-policeman liaison program at Wheeling High School will begin Jan. 1, 1967.

Officer Theodore Homsey of the Wheeling Police Department has been assigned to the high school. Officer Homsey has been with the department since April, 1966 and previously served three years with the Rolling Meadows Police Department. He has attended various police training courses which included several subjects on youths and juveniles.

Wheeling also will have a school-policeman liaison program in the junior high school in the village, hopefully by next spring.

A police-counselor has been on the staff at Elk Grove High School since September and two members of the Arlington Heights Police Department were assigned to Arlington and Forest View High Schools in November.

Architect Presents Plans To Remodel High School

A "preliminary estimate" on what it would cost to remodel Arlington High School was given to members of the Dist. 214 Board of Education Monday night.

"Approximately $2.5 million," said Architect Ken Untied, representing the architect, Berger, Kelley, Untied & Assoc., gave board members a report on a plan for the complete remodeling of the school. The board requested the report to study the total physical needs of the building and develop a plan for overall remodeling.

Untied said that a room-by-room analysis would be needed for a more accurate estimate of costs but from studying the current needs the firm developed several programs on how the necessary remodeling could be accomplished.

The immediate needs and cost estimates presented by Untied included $400,000 for additional physical education facilities; $250,000 for life safety code work; and $600,000 for a boiler plant replacement.

"Right now you are reaching physical education in the heart of the academic area. This is not an ideal situation," Untied said.

The limited area of the school site also creates a problem for future expansion.

UNTIED'S suggestions included raising the shop area and building a more comprehensive shop section in line with the school. The cost for this year is projected according to the length of time the office has been serving the district.

The board approved the payment of $10,137.50 to the Village of Arlington Heights for assigning two police counselors to the schools for approximately one and one-half months of the year. The cost for this year is projected according to the length of time the office has been serving the district.

The board of education also approved the payment of $2,180 to the Village of Wheeling for the school year. Another estimate will be given by the Village of Wheeling when their fiscal year begins in May.

The board members asked Architect Ken Untied to improve the physical plant and offer an additional estimate. "It is not my job to tell you as a board of education what to do. However, some staff members are hesitant to do things, in the case of main teaching, for example, because of the limited facilities," Untied said.

The overall plan as proposed by Untied would include an additional 13 classrooms, large library facilities, locker rooms and dressing rooms, physical education facilities.

The situation at Arlington High School becomes more complicated when the problem of financing the project and when to begin is brought to the fore.

Untied said that he would have to be awarded in January of a chosen year to enable construction to begin the following June.

A classroom would have to be held to get approval of the voters in the district and the bonds to finance the project. The additional staff would be needed to furnish an accurate cost estimate and "plan of attack" on the Arlington Building.

He reserves the right to make changes in the plan. Further estimates will be submitted by December 15.

City Rejects Mobil Oil Compromise

The Rolling Meadows city council has officially turned down a compromise offer from Mobil Oil Co. which would enable the company to construct a service station at the corner of Lincoln and W. 14th St.

The offer was made by Mayor William Munka several weeks ago, and Munka wrote a confidential letter to each of the city's ten aldermen asking them to inform him of their opinion in the matter.

All the aldermen recently let an appeal to the city's plan commission and city engineer responsible for building preliminary hearings in zoning matters. The commission recommended that the council deny the necessary special use permit which would have allowed Mobil to proceed with its plan.

THE COMPANY countered with an offer calling for the demolition of an abandoned Mobil station on Lincoln Rd. as the city's business district and the sale of the land now occupied by the boarded-up station to the city, a stipulation for Mobil turned the price of the land "extremely reasonable."

In return for the demolition of the station and the sale of the land to the city, the oil company requested the right to construct the service station on Lincoln and W. 14th St.

Munka contacted the commission last week and found them unanimously opposed to accepting Mobil's offer. He also announced the aldermen's decision at last Tuesday's council meeting. He did not, however, publicly discuss the terms of the offer.

A spokesman for Mobil was contacted last night and he said that he had not yet been notified of the city's decision. He indicated that the company would have no alternative but to present a bid again for the site of the offer.

Essay Winners Announced

The winners of an essay contest sponsored by the Rolling Meadows Jaycees have been announced, according to James Reil, chairman of the day's many committee.

The eight winners, who wrote essays on the topic "What American Means to Me," were honored at a special assembly meet Monday at which Sidney L. DeLay, vice president of Independence Hall in Chicago, presided.

First place in the contest was won by Kathie Ulbrich, a student at St. Columba's school, who will receive a $25 savings bond. Second place was won by James Lorente, also of St. Columba's, who will receive a $25 savings bond. He also will receive a $25 savings bond.

Linda Trentman and Pat Olsen, students at Carl Sandburg School were awarded third place. They will each receive $10 savings bonds. Runner up in the contest were Mary Kay Kent and Suzanne Scher of St. Columba's.

Ken Carlsen and Linda Auerbach of Carl Sandburg School were awarded fourth place. They will each receive a $5 savings bond.

Vehicle Tax Law to Be Strengthened

Rolling Meadows Alderman Emanuel Garcia, chairman of the council's ordinance and judicial committee, announced at Tuesday's city council meeting that the committee is studying strengthening the city's vehicle sticker ordinance.

The session came after the discussion by acting Police Chief Cy Campbell that the present ordinance had a loophole which prevented the ordinance from being enforced for several months out of the year.

Gary Nelson, 9, of 615 W. Grove; Jim Buche, 8, of 419 W. Wing, and Jeff Stahl, 10, 838 S. Arlington Heights Rd., pushing touches on a big tree and other plants at pack 57 retirement and donated to the Children's Center for the Retarded.

Highland Paving Under Discussion

By Jim Ross

Preliminary steps for another street improvement project were taken by the Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) Thursday night.

The meeting was held at the home of the village's consulting engineers, Messrs. Townsend & Associates, who are the city's property owners. At the hearing the BOLI discussed the possibility of paving a street 32 feet wide. A dead-end water main in the area would be eliminated and sidewalks would be installed on both sides of the street.

Preliminary estimates on the total cost of the project is $43,000 if the village has to resort to special assessments.

PRESIDENT pro tem Russell Carlson agreed with property owners who expressed a desire to look into the possibility of doing the work by private contract.

"The position of BOLI is to wait until the village has received proposals for these projects," he said. "The village awaits."

According to Carlson, 20 to 30 per cent of the total project cost could be saved by going private contract.

At the request of Frederick A. Weber, representing the Lutheran Church, BOLI considered the hearing and the property owners to discuss the possibility of an operating in a private contract manner.

An EXPECTED conclusion

for the extension of Lillie St. to the intersection of Arlington Heights Rd. was reached at the meeting Thursday night.

At the meeting, the council recommended that the city engineer, Mr. Frank J. DeLay, prepare a plan for the extension of Lillie St. to the intersection of Arlington Heights Rd. and W. 14th St.

In a letter to the NWSD on Dec. 6, he asked to be re-elected to serve as the president-elect so that the division can maintain in the future the maintenance of the highway.

There isn't as much good news lately as there used to be by 1960 there will be even less. And there will be a 1/2 million more people in the Chicago area to worry about.

Yesterday the Northeast Illinois Planning Commission met with the public to plan where to put the people.

The planners have signs of water and air pollution, even parking lot jams, congested roads, water shorts, aging sewerage and water mains, and a host of other problems.

The only way to effectively cope with them, the planners said, is through regional planning, incorporating the metropolitan Chicago area as a whole.

NIPC (Northwest Illinois Planning Commission) announced that it would be holding a series of public hearings to discuss the future of the Chicago area.

'Bad News' Taxes

In the corridors of Common Market headquarters it is known as the "bad news" book. What it is, is a 204-page listing of all taxes imposed by state and local governments in the nation's 50 states and the District of Columbia.

Some Day

There must be a handed out that get mentioned in the during the course of the year.

"Take of them from the themselves," said Mount Prospect fireman Henry Karp. "I've got called by me to observe the annual down if it is to be not too frightened. Otherwise he's out of the town."

There are visits to every dread, apparently, but the cat-in-the-hat is a daily affliction. Heights fireman had the first chance to rescue a cat that had stayed in a tree for two days. They did not complaint the job because the cat was on the east side of the road instead of the west.

By being on the wrong side of the street the cat was outside of the village limits, that outside of the jurisdiction of the firemen. As long as the fireman had made the town you would think they would be interested. But they did not. They did not have the authority to go into private property to rescue a cat.

If a man climbed the tree and fell, he might not be rescued by the municipality's insurance. A broken leg is not to be treated lightly on a fireman's salary.

Station H. Perry of 1521 S. 10th St. was the first to arrive. He was the last door to where the cat was marooned. He volunteered to climb the tree but the owner of the property refused permission. There are things such as liability insurance that home-owners must carry about, too.

Who wants to pay hospital bills for a cat? The Christmas season will all the Christmas season.

... by Frank E. Von Arx

perform the rescue. They did the job with dispatch.

It was just a cat-in-the-tree story but it sure became involved. Next time it might be a fire and it would be a good idea for people to realize that reliable time is often lost by misdirection.

Many of our village have been by the same name and if a telephone operator or police or fire dispatcher does not understand the directions it is entirely possible that the Des Plaines fireman may be looking for a black cat in reality at Arlington Heights.

And wouldn't that look peculiar on your insurance report?

"But, Honey, if you've GOT to look like somebody—how about RAQUEL WELCH instead of 'TWIGGY'?"

Be Merry and Safe

One of the pleasures this time of the year is shopping for the Christmas tree. The sparkle in youngsters' eyes as they help to pick the right tree is one of the first signs of happy days ahead. All too often this bright symbol of the season turns happiness into tragedy.

A Christmas tree is one of the most flammable objects known. An average size tree, once ignited, takes less than two minutes to burn.

Because it poses such a great fire hazard, certain rules have been devised by fire safety engineers to make the tree as safe as possible. They are well worth consideration.

Before purchasing a tree, bounce the stem hard on the ground. If this results in a shower of needles, don't buy the tree. It's too dry.

Keep the tree outside, standing in a bucket of water or in the snow, until a few days before Christmas. When you are ready to bring it indoors, saw off at least one inch of the trunk to help the tree absorb water.

Keep the tree in water at all times. The water level in the stand should be above the lights.

Place it in the coolest part of the house and some distance from an electrical outlet to avoid possible sparks from lighting it when plugging and un-plugging light cords.

Before decorating it with lights, make certain the lights near the Underwriter's Laboratories (UL) label to assure that they have been tested for fire and shock resistance.

Check all old light cords and extensions for frayed wires, loose connections and broken sockets. If you find much defect, throw the cord out or have it repaired.

Don't plug too many cords into one outlet. Above all, never use more than a 15-ampere fuse on the electrical circuit.

Make a daily check to see if needles are falling. If they have, move the lights to other locations.

And remember, when the needles start to fall, don't leave the lights on longer than a half hour at a time. Better yet, turn the tree down.

Another son, David, is attending the University of Wisconsin.

Ted of the Van Dyk children, named Prospect High School, will be in the Arlington Heights area, a sophomore. Youngest daughter, Peggy, is a student at Mount Junior High School.

The Van Dyk family is a member of the Arlington Heights community organizations in the Chicago area.

The new facility will be built for expanding programs in biology, chemistry, physics, mathematics, astronomy and computer science. Integral to the area will be a new planetarium.

The school's Law and Justice Center will remain at its present location, Law on the Chicago campus and Journalism on the south end of the Evanston campus.

Lt. Col. Van Dyk Leaves Nike Base

The commander of the 755th Radar Squadron stationed at the Arlington Heights Nike missile base will retire Jan. 31 after 26 years in the service. Lt. Col. William C. Van Dyk has been commander of the 755th for one year, assuming his present duties in January, 1966.

Lt. Col. Van Dyk has accepted the position of director of development and public relations for the Nike Missile Center, West de Peru, Wis.

The new position will be a great honor for Van Dyk, who served in the 10th NORAD Det., Trans. Flight.

Try Wearing A Storepipe, It's Smart

"If just can't wear a hat" is a common wail these days. For some women, the statement is literally true. It's not that they are physically incapable of putting hats on their heads, but simply that hats are grossly unflattering to them. Sound familiar? If so, a storepipe may provide cover from the wind and snow, yet still not look like a hat. This style is crashable, elasticized in back for good fit and draped in front for smart looks.

Gay scenes from stage to screen in Bob Simpson's production of the musical "Can-Can". The musical is a comedy and satirical play about the 1920s. It's had an eye on for good stage plays. They give it a sparkling past production.

But, besides the music, the Simpson choreography is sheer beauty, especially the ballroom where love is stamped by the serenade to parades of the apple. This was magnificent to see. The lighting and costumes.

Shirley Larkin, who did the "Can-Can" in the original production, was seen on stage. She had an eye on for good stage plays. They give it a sparkling past production.

To put so much of a small stage in an act in itself, and "Can-Can" has a real of well over twenty. But the simple, sex, the lighting, and excellent direction render it a show that is worth seeing.

For the first time, someone worth seeing in that gorgeous music, Keith Prater, who kept the ladies at one table in a constant state of swoon. Not only he is handsome, but he can sing! His powerful enthusiasm of any musical, on or off stage. Come we can't have everything!

Are You Registered To Vote?

Arlington Heights residents may register to vote at the Municipal Building, 31 N. Arlington Heights Rd., through Jan. 17.

This will be the last opportunity to register locally before next spring's election, according to Village Clerk Mrs. Jeanne Novak. After that, registrations will be taken only at the county clerk's office in Chicago.

College students home for the holidays may be especially interested in this opportunity, she said. They may register now if they will be 21 by April 18 when the next village election will be held.

VOTERS who live in unincorporated areas of Winnetka and Elk Grove Townships may register at their respective townships during the same period.

To register, residents must have lived one year in the state of Illinois and 90 days in Cook County.

Visitors who were registered in most suburban areas of the county who have moved can file a change of address form with the County Clerk, County Building, Chicago 60602.

Illini Quintet Opens Big 10 Warfare Against Wisconsin

Illinois, labeled a possible contender for the national title in pre-season estimates, and a team that has been day-night on home against West.

Illini completed the 1966 portion of their home schedule with a 10-1 record in 11 day-night contests.

Coach Harry Combs' 26th season at the helm of the venerable squad is a 90-58-1 record at the venerable site at Kentucky and a 40-58-1 last-tenured loss at West Virginia. The Illini have defeated Bama 82-51 in the 1965 season, a 2-1 record against the Rebels.

COACH JOHN EHRICH's second season at the helm of the house in Cincinnati and Boston College has been a 10-10 record. Ehrlich has an excellent sophomore class, which is expected to make the team tougher as the season progresses.

One of the newcomers, senior center Jim Wright—only the seven-player core of the Illini—will be the tallest player to face Bama. Wright, 6-10, will be the tallest player to face Illinois in Kentucky's Bill Standish Stadium.

A 5.9 player for Standish, Wright is expected to start Wednesday night game. Listed as a probable starter at center, Wright is a 1966 graduate of Wilmotte senior, and the son of a former coach of the same name.

THE ELDER NABER captured the 1965-66 season in 1958, and 1959 and captured the 1960-61 season. He is a teammate of Harry Combs of the 1957 team.

Illini will start its first two games, 56-51 over Arkansas and 87-73 over San Francisco State.

Illinois will go into Monday night's game with a 10-1 record, which, according to Combs, is the best record in the nation.

"WE WENT" the road five days last week, with two grueling games, and the night-day schedule was "a little more helpful," he says. "Jim Downes is a little more of a professional in top shape by the time we play the next game."

There were changes in the Rich Jones-Doug Fleener rotation. Jones, who had won a contest which has started all three games. However, he was replaced by Jim Kubiak, and Danny Page, from the bullpen, was called in. West said Jones showed that he can be "inserted into the lineup at any time."

West made the fifth in scoring with a 28.3 average and in rebounding with 11.3 mark. He also had a 10.3 scoring pace, when he totaled 506 points in 47 games. West's production is the team's history and best ever

Road Contests Attract Area's Prep Swimmers

Early swimming teams from Arlington, Prospect, and Forest View all will take to the pool this weekend in search of their first dual-meet victories.

ARLINGTON, which is winless in four meets so far, will get two chances to claim victory coming beginning with a 6 p.m. engagement at Elgin today. The Cardinals will follow that one with a trip to Waukegan where they will face the Sabers at 7:30 p.m. and Arlington at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Prospect also has a two-bell scheduled for the weekend. The Knights will try to find some degree of success in their first meet, but they will have their first fortunes at 4:30 p.m. today when they journey to St. George. A quadrangular meet where they will face St. George, St. Anthony and Saturday will be next for Forest View Barrett's team.

FOREST VIEW returns from a two-week layoff tonight, but will have to wait until 6:30 p.m. The Falcons, who have dropped their first two meets, will be able Saturday.

Unless their area coaches are St. Anthony's starters have found the pickings so slim this season. The one-chance Lions can still be looking for the short straight win and four of the year tonight at 7:30 p.m. at East Leyland.
